Donor Profile - Harlow Pease Launches Legacy Society

Harlow Pease, shown at right with Waterfront Village Volunteer Norma Joiner, came to Washington, D.C., in 1967 and has lived in Southwest for nearly 50 years, the last 43 years at 700 7th Street, S.W. (Town Square Towers).

As a computer specialist and systems analyst for the federal government, he liked the convenience of living close to work, so the Southwest neighborhood was a natural fit. After retiring in 1997, Harlow stayed in the neighborhood.

He was one of the first members to join Waterfront Village, after hearing about it from Perry Klein, a neighbor active in the community.

"I'm probably one of the biggest recipients of services," Harlow said.

He's been totally blind for nearly 20 years, so he said he is pleased with the support he gets from the Village, both practical and social.

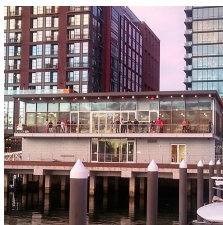

"It's nice to get out and socialize," he said. He's been to many events in the past year. When he's not at Village events, Harlow enjoys reading. He just finished Trip Wire, the third book in the Jack Reacher series written by Lee Child. He recently bought an Amazon Echo®, which gives him access to hundreds of audiobooks via the Audible app.

You shop. Amazon gives.

Do you buy online? Did you know Amazon will donate to a designated charity on your behalf every time you make a purchase?

The program, Smile Amazon, allows you to name Waterfront Village as a charitable organization to receive money with every one of your purchases. When you hit the "buy" button, a little share goes into the Waterfront Village fund. It's like your credit card accumulating points for you. And it doesn't cost you any extra fee or surcharge.

Begin by going to smile.amazon.com. The page lists a few Spotlight Charities and has a blank strip near the bottom where you can enter: Waterfront Village. Click the "Select" box, and that's it!

Next time you use Amazon -- if you're a frequent shopper -- you'll be asked if you want to use Amazon Smile, and then it will slide into that page. Bookmark it for regular use, and donate to the Village in the easiest way possible. Amazon has given more than $89 million to charities through this program.
